Slovakia's Wonderful Folk Festivals

By Loretta Ekoniak

Východná Folk Festival

One of the biggest regrets that I had after visiting Slovakia with my family, was that we missed one of Slovakia's most well known Folk Festivals by one week! If we had known about it, we might have been able to be there for the Východná Folk Festival.

I don't think that you can talk about Slovakia without talking about music. While it is true that Slovakia has wonderful classic musicians and its own popular music, it is in the folk music that one finds Slovakia's soul. The Slovak people have used music to keep their traditions alive. In a country at the crossroads of central Europe, Slovaks have often been ruled by others, from the Hungarians to the Russians. Their songs and dances helped them to keep their own traditions alive. The songs often portray the hardships that were theirs, but also contain the beauty of the countryside and the celebrations of everyday life. Each region of Slovakia has its own folk traditions that are seen in the dances and songs from that area. Thankfully, the country of Slovakia is keeping its traditions alive, especially through its splendid Folk Festivals.

4th Annual Mahoning Valley SlovakFest

by Loretta Ekoniak

Summer is in full force and everyone is looking for fun things to do with their time. Well, for the last three years, Ohio's Mahoning Valley Slovaks have been providing just that. This August 16th, the 4th annual Mahoning Valley SlovakFest will be held on the grounds of St. Mathias Church in Youngstown OH from 11:30AM to about 8 PM. It was begun in 2006 by a group of people who remembered the great Slovak picnics of their youth, usually held by the area's Slovak parishes or organizations. They wanted to carry on this summer activity and share their love of their Slovak heritage with everyone in this Valley. And of course, you can't get more than 3 Slovaks together without there being food and music!

The SlovakFest kicks off with a wonderful Polka Mass at St. Matthias Church, on Youngstown's Southside, an area where many Slovak families settled in the early 1900s. This joyful Mass will be offered at 11:30AM with the music provided by the Eddie Vallus Band. After the celebration of Mass, the festivities will move to the church parking lot and the former school, in the Father Snock Center at 2800 Shady Run Rd., Youngstown, OH 44502.

Inside the hall, dinners will be served from noon till 3 with a choice of Lamb, Chicken or Halubky (stuffed cabbage).

Outside you will find halušky, klobassi, lamb, pirohy and more throughout the day. There will also be wonderful Slovak baked goods available!

Starting at 4PM, the Grammy nominated Del Sinchak polka band will be playing for those who love to polka or those who just want to sit and listen. As they say on their website, it has been said, "kde je Slovak, tam je spev. " -- "where there is a Slovak, there is singing." And there will be plenty of music and singing at the Mahoning Valley SlovakFest.

The SlovakFest also has many Slovak items on display or for sale.

There will be a silent auction of baskets filled with all sorts of items, and a raffle of $2000 worth of Get Go/Giant Eagle gift cards for gasoline or food! There will be children's games, clowns and other activities throughout the day. Admission is free, so if you remember the Slovak picnics of your childhood, or if you don't, but would like to make some new memories, plug us into your GPS, jump in your car, and join us on August 16th for a wonderful time at the 4th Annual Mahoning Valley SlovakFest!

Slovak Hour Host Needed for WKTL

By Faith Simko

For those of you that don't know me, I'm Faith Simko and have been with the Slovak Radio Program since October 19, 1985.

Many of you know that our former ASCA president, Mary Babnic, who was co-host for the program, was having problems with Macular Degeneration. As her condition fluctuated, I told Mary and Kay Franko (also listed as co-host), that once Mary felt she could no longer do the program, that I also would leave the program.

Because of Mary's unexpected death on June 20, 2008, I have stayed on to be the Host. Since then, we have been looking for a Host and Co-host. It is now over one year since Mary's passing. In October it will be 24 years that I've been at WKTL. I do not intend to stay, if no one comes forward. I will work with whoever might be interested.

If interested, please call me at 330-755-6510.

Thank you.

SLOVAKIA – A SMALL COUNTRY

Chapter IX

SLOVAK EXPERIENCES

Germans

By Rev. George M. Franko

In the 19th century Americans eagerly heeded the advice of John Soule, “Go West, young man! Go West!” Fame and fortune beckoned them there. About the same time, German’s imperialistic plan to dominate Eastern Europe was expressed by “Drang nach Osten,” of “Drive to the East.” Actually Germans migrated eastward long before the 19th century. Many Germans came to and settled in the region of present-day Slovakia even in the 12th century.

America is a land of immigrants and prides itself on being a “melting pot.” Emphasis is placed not on the cultures brought to its shores by new-comers but on the blending of nationalities and cultures in a new American ethos. Europe’s tradition is quite different. There individual nationalities and their cultures are highly prized and as a consequence, minority nationalities are protected and supported by all European countries. A natural assimilation does indeed occur but the majority seems to preserve their identity. This is true in spite of wars and religious upheavals.

Slovaks and Germans have lived together for more than 900 years. All in all, the relationship has been mutually rewarding. Slovakia provided a hospitable environment and Germans enriched the population in many ways. Today Carpathian Germans, that is, Germans living in Slovakia, number about 5,500 and they enjoy the support of the Slovak government as well as aid from the German fatherland. They constitute about 1% of the population. Germans, however, have exerted an influence on Slovakia to a greater extent than their numbers would suggest.

German missionaries first brought the Christian Faith to Slovakia at the beginning of the 9th century. They came from Bavaria(Passau) andAustria(Salzburg) and when Pribina, the ruler of Nitra, built the first Christian church in Slovakia in 828 it was the archbishop of Salzburg, Adalram, who blessed it. Soon settlers came from Bavaria, Austria, Silesia, and even Saxony and settled in three main areas: Bratislava, the mining region of Central Slovakia and Spiš. Most colonists came in waves beginning in the 13th century and reaching their peak in the 15th. Germans were also invited by Empress Maria Theresa(1717-1780) and her son, Joseph II, to repopulate many Slovak towns which had been devastated by the Turkish invasions(1529-1686).

When Germans first came to Slovakia their language baffled the natives and hence they were called “Nemci,” or mutes, that is, speakers of an unintelligible tongue, and yet with the passing of time many German words found their way into the everyday speech of Slovaks. This happened especially in the dialects spoken in areas where Germans lived. Some of these words are: dach (roof), meister (master), schuhster (shoemaker), farbe (color,paint), grundbuch (land register), grunt (lot), flasche (bottle), luft (air). Many of our early immigrants, coming from the Eastern counties of Slovakia, used these words as a matter of course. Many Slovak towns have German names, for example: Pressburg (Bratislava), Käsmark (Kezmarok), Leutschau (Levoča), and many Slovaks have German surnames, for example: Bruner, Hoffman, Neubauer, Mickler, Eck.

Not surprisingly, German influence was prominent in Slovakia not only due to extensive colonization but also because Slovakia was part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire until 1919. Vienna was the capital of the nation. It was the site of a famous university where many Slovaks studied and where some of the clergy were prepared for their ministry. It was the center of political and cultural life and Slovak patriots gathered there. Knowing German was essential. Knowing the language introduced people to German culture.

It is also worth noting that universal conscription was the law in Austria-Hungary before World War I and this brought many Slovak young men into the Austrian army where the manual of arms was in German. It too, taught Slovaks basic German words and expressions.

German settlers in Slovakia were mainly engaged in mining, trade guilds, finance and marketing. Few worked in agriculture. They brought German “know how” to Slovakia and improved the life of the population. This went beyond language and influenced the everyday life of the people. Trade guilds were part of the feudal life style and were important even up to the industrial revolution. Slovak buildings and towns reflect German architectural styles and Levoča’s magnificent St. James Church with its carved wooden high altar clearly is an example of German medieval art.

Next to the Czech Republic, Austria is Slovakia’s best neighbor, and Austria is a German nation. Both nations share the Danube River and travel between Bratislava and Vienna is easy and convenient. Vienna’s airport provides Slovakia access to international connections not available in Bratislava and Austria is a reliable partner in trade and commerce.

During World War II Slovakia was a coerced ally of Hitler’s Germany as were many European nations at the time. Nevertheless, Slovakia’s President Jozef Tiso managed to preserve a measure of independence for the people and spared them many of the horrors of that terrible war.

Germans were never a political problem for Slovakia though some were forcibly and unfairly deported after World War II by the Czech President Beneš. Many of the early German settlers have been assimilated into the Slovak population and those who have preserved their ethnic identity are loyal and productive citizens. As a consequence, German is a foreign language second only to English taught in Slovak secondary schools. In 1999 independent Slovakia’s second president was elected. He was Rudolf Schuster, of ethnic German background. This is an excellent example of how well the German ethnic minority is integrated into the life of the Slovak nation.

Margarete Hurn, author of A Foreigner's Guide to Living in Slovakia, says that one of the first things that struck her when she came to Slovakia to teach English, was that, unlike most European countries, where folk culture is for "old people", this isn't so in Slovakia, where you will find Slovaks of all ages enjoying the wonderful celebrations of Slovak folk culture!

So let me tell you about some of the Folk Festivals that you can find if you visit Slovakia. Hopefully, you will get a chance to attend one if you have the chance to travel to Slovakia!

Remember, many of the towns and villages have their own smaller festivals that are only advertised locally! Many festivals take place during the summer, leading up to the harvest festivals, but you can find some type of festival going on just about any time of year.

In April you can find International Day of the Roma. This annual festival is always celebrated in Poprad, where dozens of professional and amateur Roma (gypsy) groups perform a variety of traditional dances and musical performances.

In May you can find the International Folk Costumes Dolls Festival in Vysoké Tatry, Kežmarok, Svit and the village of Veľká Lomnica. Children's folklore comes alive with live presentations of beautiful folk costumes (kroj), songs and dances and also by the display of folk costume dolls dressed in traditional costumes.

Folk Costumes Doll Festival

June sees the Slovak Folk Festivals really start to take off. There is the Eurofolklore Festival in Banská Bystrica, the Cassovia Festival in Košice which includes a bryndzové halušky cooking and eating contest, the 50th International Folk Festival Myjava, the Zamagurie Festival in Červený Kláštor, the Festival of Tinkers in Žilina and in Svidník, Kamienka and Humenne Festivals of Ruthenian and Ukrainian Folklore!

July sees two of the most well known and biggest of Slovakia's Folk Festivals: the 55th annual Východná Folklore Festival beneath the Vysoké Tatras and the 44th annual Folklore Festival Poľana in Detva. And a unique folklore festival the International Festival of Novohrad is held simultaneously in two countries, Slovakia and Hungary, at the end of July and the start of August!

August has the 47th Jánošík Days in Terchova, celebrating the Slovak national hero, and Liptovská Teplica has the Festival Under Kráľová Hoľa; and the Podroháčske Folklore Festival is the oldest regularly organized folklore events in Orava.

September has Snina's Slovak Romany Festival Ternipen and the oddly named Salamander Festival in Banská Štiavnica, a town festival bringing together miners and foresters not only from Banská Štiavnica itself, but from all over Slovakia, and of course there is a Grape Harvest Festival in Pezinok.

October has the Detva Roma Festival and the Traditional Fair of Levice to name a couple.

In November, the interesting Hontianska Parada event is a regional Agro tourism festival of folk culture which takes place in the Hrusov woodlands. All kinds of traditional farming activities are on display alongside folk music, songs and dancing.

One thing is certain...I've only scratched the surface of Slovakia's wonderful Folk Festivals! Please check out the links at the end of this newsletter to find out more!

Cleveland chosen as site for annual genealogy conference

By Ronald Garchar and Loretta Ekoniak

The Czecho-Slovak Genealogical Society International (CGSI) will host its next Genealogical and Cultural Conference in Cleveland, Ohio, October 14-17,2009 at the Holiday Inn Cleveland South-Independence. The four-day conference will feature a number of speakers on an array of genealogical, cultural and historical topics of interest of those of Slovak, Czech and Rusyn ancestries. The conference will also include an extensive display of folk dress and artifacts. A display of ethnic music and dance performances by area folk ensembles will also be featured.

With about 3,000 members drawn from 48 states and five foreign countries, CGSI is the world's largest non-profit organization devoted to the genealogy of the ethnic groups that comprised the former Czecho-Slovak Republic, namely the Slovaks, Czechs and Rusyns. The Cleveland area is home to more than 50,000 of Slovak ancestry and about the same number of Czech heritage as well as thousands of Rusyn ancestry. Many of the early Czechs found work with John D. Rockefeller's Standard Oil while the Slovaks came to Cleveland to work at the steel and mining companies. The first Czech bishop in America was the Most Rev. Josef Maria Koudelka who was an auxiliary bishop of Cleveland in the early years of the 20th century and who enjoyed a close association with both the Slovak and Czech communities nationwide. The leader of the Slovak
